MINOT-SLEEPER LIBRARY—REPORT OF TRUSTEES

Unusual progress has been made at the Minot-Sleeper library this year. This was made possible through the accrued interest on the bequest of Sarah J. Tenney, through a substantial gift from the Woman's club, funds from the Civil Works Administration, and the assistance of librarian and townspeople, who gave generously of their time in the two months devoted to recataloging of the library books under the Civil Works Administration.

With the money from the bequest a room for toilet and lavatory was made in the basement, and a lavatory was installed in the librarian's work room on the main floor. In this connection a new sewer was necessary. The entrance to the basement was changed from the vestibule to the work room, and space in the hall was taken for a display closet for relics. Through the generosity of the Woman's club an oil burner was installed in the furnace.

Not only is the oil burner of great convenience, but it also makes possible the use of the basement for books and is a valuable investment in preserving from frost and mould all books throughout the building. The town, as well as the trustees, are deeply indebted to the Woman's club for this splendid gift.

In December, at the suggestion of Miss Dorothy Annable, secretary of the Public Library Commission, the trustees applied for C. W. A. funds for recataloging the books, the library to meet the expense of necessary materials. The only funds in sight were the regular book money, and it was considered wise to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of having the books recataloged, which had long been urgently desired. It was felt that the public would be willing to forego the pleasure of new books that this advance step might be taken, and that in the end they would profit thereby.

The C. W. A. application was accepted, and Bristol was most fortunate in having sent to us Miss Lillian R. Perkins of Manchester, a professional librarian, who has been most efficient and untiring in her efforts to bring the library up to date in its classification and system of cataloging. She has taken a keen personal interest in the project, doing more than was actually required of such a worker. Miss Perkins had a very able assistant in Miss Ruth B. Kelley of New Hampton, who had had some study in library work.

A little later application was made for further Federal funds for keeping the library open more hours during the two months. This request was not granted but funds were provided for another assistant in the project already started, and Miss Margaret E. Thayer, typist, was selected. These three workers were paid through the C. W. A., and Miss Annable has made frequent visits here in supervising the project.

In addition to this the librarian, Miss Mary A. Rogers, and some of the trustees have been constant workers, devoting day after day in the library, and some twenty-five or thirty persons and fifteen high school girls have also given gratuitous work. The trustees are extremely grateful for these services, without which the completion of cataloging in ten weeks would have been impossible. Bristol was one of eight towns in New Hampshire having similar library projects.

Through these numerous helpers, Miss Perkins can boast of the completion of the cataloging of approximately 7,000 books in the stacks. Many books in poor condition have been placed in the basement, where two new stacks have been built for such storage. This has greatly relieved the congestion in the main library, making it unnecessary to use the top stacks, and leaving accessible those books most in demand. The books and shelves have received a thorough dusting and cleaning.

The Dewey Decimal System of classification has been installed, this including ten general classes—General Works, Philosophy, Religion, Sociology, Language, Science, Useful Arts, Fine Arts, Literature, History.

During her last week in town, Miss Perkins received all the grade children in the library and instructed them in the arrangement of books, the proper handling and care of books, arranged exhibits for them, and sent many of them home with books. She also received pupils from the high schools, explaining and giving them problems in finding books.

In her report to the trustees, Miss Perkins says in part:

"The Civil Works project of recataloging and reclassifying the books of the Minot-Sleeper library was started Dec. 4, 1933, and completed Feb. 8, 1934.

"There were 6,845 books cataloged as follows: 2,198 adult fiction, 3,521 adult nonfiction, 732 juvenile fiction, 394 juvenile nonfiction. The books were classified according to the Dewey Decimal system. They were then lettered and rearranged on the shelves according to their classification. All books which were considered in too poor a condition to circulate were removed from the shelves and put in storage in the basement.

"Two special sets of books were placed on the shelves in the librarian's workroom. One of these groups of books is labeled 'NH col.' These books are either written about New Hampshire or written by New Hampshire authors and have been brought together as a New Hampshire collection. The second collection of books in the librarian's workroom is the New Hampshire town histories.

"A new charging system was installed whereby each book has a book card which remains in the library as a record when the book circulates. Book pockets were placed in all the books to hold these cards when the book is not in circulation. This system does not require the use of a borrower's card.

"I have found that the book collection for adults is, on the whole, a fairly good one. The crying need seems to be for books which will meet the needs of children from the first grade on up through high school. The children need these books especially to supplement their school work. In order to help correct this deficiency, a booklist of recommended books was compiled. Book orders from now on should consist mainly of these books which are so badly needed. Better books for children mean better future citizens for the town of Bristol.

"The last week of the project was spent in working with the grammar school and high school children, teaching them the proper use of the library, both as a supplement to their school work and as a better means of employing leisure time.

"I wish to thank the trustees of the Minot-Sleeper library, Miss Rogers, the school teachers, and the other people of Bristol who gave their time unsparingly to the project.

"MISS LILLIAN R. PERKINS."

The annual report of the librarian, Miss Mary A. Rogers, shows a total of 18,741 books loaned during the year; 11,141 fiction; 4,240 junior fiction, and 3,360 miscellaneous. Books added during the year 74. Patrons of reading room 3,870. Collected from fines, etc., $47.46.

Mrs. Ira A. Chase has most generously donated another table and case for specimens, which will soon display foreign relics, also given by Mrs. Chase; and some valuable books have been donated.

Dr. Pray, committee on collecting pictures and relics, has received some worthwhile donations, which will be placed in the library as soon as places are ready for them.

It is hoped that these changes will also enhance the value of the reading room. For a town the size of Bristol, this library can boast of an unusual assortment of worthwhile magazines. We believe that more and more is appreciated the Minnie Maria-Day Jackman fund which makes this possible. Because of the increased length of this report the list of magazines is omitted from publication this year.

The trustees appeal to parents to encourage their children to read and to read the books best suited to their age. They desire that the changes in the library may prove a stimulus for more patrons, and more extensive reading, and that the library will increasingly serve the citizens of this and surrounding towns.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of the School District of Bristol
in the Town of Bristol:

I submit herewith my eleventh annual report as superintendent of schools.

May I call your attention to that part of the report designated as "Financial Standing." This statement does not have any reference to the bonded debt of the district. It deals only with the standing of the district on Jan. 31, and shows the ability of the district to meet its obligations for the remainder of the school year in terms of the current budget.

You will notice that the unexpended items exceed the anticipated revenue by a little over six hundred dollars.

Two factors have contributed to bring this situation about. Because of the decrease in the high school tuition rate throughout the State it seemed wise to drop our own rate from one hundred dollars to eighty dollars. This cut of twenty dollars on each of forty-six non-resident pupils decreased our anticipated income from that source by over a thousand dollars. In addition, bills amounting to a little over three hundred dollars were carried over from last year. This was done so that the payment of the bond and interest due July 1, each year could be met during the last days of June from current money. As a result of this step, there will be no borrowing in the last days of the year of the so called "new money" to meet the bond and interest payment.

You will also notice that the amount of interest to be raised is sixty-seven dollars and fifty cents less than what would have been raised under the old method of borrowing from the "new money."

By watching the expenditures from now on until the end of the year this deficit can probably be cut down. In all probability, however, the item of fuel will be over run.

EARLE P. FREESE,
Superintendent of Schools.
